

Hi everybody,

Most students indicate that they are working hard. You also indicate that you like to be free to do what you find most beneficial for you during lab. People appreciate having an open lab, where you don't have a "cookbook" laboratory procedure, but also request more guidance when you don't know what to do. I will continue to balance these two things best I can. Many students are expressing confusion on how waves work. I think that many people find this difficult.

Thanks for the feedback, and I appreciate your continued work and attention on the material as well as letting me know how you want to be and how you want me to be as we learn together.
